LOCAL MATTERS.

DR. C. H. LORD leaves San Francisco, hitherward, to-day.

P. R. BAINE came in from Salt River on Wednesday on some law business. Mr.
Baine has been engaged for some time in the building of C. T. Hayden's new sawmill.

COLONEL TAYLOR paid off the troops at Lowell the first part of this week and some of the boys in blue have since been raking over the dry embers of town in pursuit of life and sport.

GEORGE HAND has removed "Foster's saloon" from Main-st. to corner of Meyers and Mesilla-sts., the old restaurant corner.
George is a good man and says he means to make the boys behave themselves in their biblicy experiments.

MR. L. WOLF of the firm of M. I. Jacobs & Co., arrived from Guaymas on Saturday after an absence of some weeks, and brought back his usual avoirdupois.
He has a large amount of goods from Guaymas, which will be sold at the firm of Hardin & Marshall. Mr. Hardin & Marshall has now a large amount of cattle near the Clenega. He is at this time settling in Tucson. He is a valuable part of Arizona.

DEPUTY SURVEYOR DELANEY, who this week surveyed the Empire mine, belonging to Lieuts. Forbush and Johnson.
This claim is situated about 10 miles south of west of the Patagonia mines, and in the vicinity of the mines which Verkes had surveyed last Fall. As the case with all who visit that region Mr. De-Lane is eloquent in the praise of the Santa Rita country. Its balmy air, forests and grassy slopes and delightful scenery render this locality the most beautiful of southern Arizona.

A. LEVIN will give a grand moonlight picnic and ball at the Park Brewery on next Wednesday evening, the 27th. On this occasion the music will be furnished by the Fifth Cavalry Band from Lowell.
This series of entertainments with the ca-paciousness and sylvan beauty of the park grounds, are a delightful innovation upon the staid course of social life in Tuc-son, and we are confident that they will increase in popularity. Mr. Levin cannot be met with too much encouragement in the line of amusements he has laid out for us in the coming summer evenings.

We were shown a specimen of gold quartz this week by Sam. H. Drachman, which is a regular mining excitement breeder. It carries fever in the most entrancing ridges of pure gold meandering through milk white quartz. But with the old fashioned honesty with which he conducts all his business affairs, Sam says he won't say anything about this ore until he goes out to the place where it came from and ascertains whether there is any more like it. He will make a trip there next week and if successful we shall hear more of this wonderful ore.

JUSTICE OSBORN'S attention has been called this week to the dance houses in town. There has been considerable complaint in regard to these institutions for the dissemination of moral leprosy and the justice has about made up his mind to move upon their works. In a case of disturbance at one of these houses brought before him this week, Frank Mc-Intyre was tried for carrying a Mexican (male) with a pistol. After due examination and finding that the pistol was one of the latest patent and therefore not at all dangerous, the magistrate let the prisoner off with only thirty dollars or thirty days in jail. In a spirit of Christian forgiveness which should be coals of fire on the souls of some we wot of, Mr. McIntyre paid this fine out of charity to the county.

THE Right Rev. A. W. Whittaker, Bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Arizona and Nevada, arrived by this morning's stage. He makes his present visit for the purpose of becoming acquainted with those parts of his bishopric to which he has heretofore been a stranger and we extend to him a most cordial welcome. Bishop Whittaker is represented as possessing the rare qualities of a sincere Christian and a social, pleasant gentleman. He is an agreeable companion to those in and out of the church and his benevolence and kindness are proverbial. Wherever he is known he is beloved by all from the youngest to the oldest. The Bishop will hold service to-morrow evening in the courthouse at the hour of 7 1/2 o'clock, and all are invited to attend.

GOV. SAFFORD and A. C. Benedict, Territorial Auditor, returned to Tucson yesterday. The Governor has been on a trip to various points in the eastern part of the Territory in pursuit of business, principally in connection with mines, and returns refreshed in body and mind. Among other items he informs us that Indian Superintendent Dudley of New Mexico, had arrived at Chiricahua for the purpose of arranging the removal of the Cache Indians to the new reservation at Cañada Alamoso. Mr. Benedict has been on a trip to the Hot Springs at Rio Mimbres, New Mexico. He went there to try the effect of the waters on some of the illis his flesh is heir to, and notably the rheumatism. He says the baths had an immediate effect on him and after continuing them awhile his rheumatism entirely disappeared. He is loud in his praises of these medicinal waters.

We mentioned the arrival of Sergeants Colby and Kelly from Camp Grant last week on a wedding fete. Sergt. Colby met with a considerable mishap while here.
It appears that a private of Co. D, 5th Cavalry, named Robert Summers, came in at the same time with Sergt. Colby's party.
The latter had known the former for many years and through faith in his honesty and friendship had put confidence in him so far as to allow him to come into familiar association with him, and the Sergeant even on a late occasion lent him a considerable sum of money. Sergt. Colby had quite a sum of money with him which he placed in his valise and left in his room.
On Monday last he left the house to be absent a short time and while so absent, Summers entered the house, discovered the money, and with that reckless enthusiasm which has always been a trait of discoverers, he mounted the Sergeant's horse and started to carry the news to Mary.
In his wild Mazepa like flight he got as far as Santa Cruz, on the southern borders, where sleep came first and on the heels of sleep came Sergt. Colby, who had followed in hot pursuit and woke him from his first young dreams of life on the road, high topped boots, steam hats, coal black steeds and other things generally associated with the gay life of the brigand.

It is merely a question of time. A war between the canine and human races in this town is inevitable and it cannot come too soon. We have either got to go to the dogs or the latter must leave for parts unknown. There is not a particle of doubt that the dogs in town consume more food than the children of the poorer classes consume. We don't get this from statistics and perhaps it would not have been admitted as evidence on a late court trial, which stands alone in law, unique, original, and at the feet of whose ingenious conclusions the highest court in Christendom might well sit and learn a thing or two of which it never before entered into the heart of man to conceive. But to return to the dogs, and the transition is so easy that one makes it with a vague impression that he is presenting the same subject in different lights, there have been people here who have lived in Constantinople and are perfectly familiar with every part of it and they say, without hesitation, that Tucson has been very much wronged by the claim Constantinople has always set up, and maintained too, to having more dogs than any other burg. We venture to say that there are alleys in this town in which there are more dogs than Constantinople or any other place ever saw. Of course we don't as yet know what Livingstone discovered in the heart of Africa, and it would be unfair to take advantage of us on that account. Now this is a very serious matter. It is as unsafe to go down one of our streets at night as to run between the lines of opposing armies. To be sure one don't very often want to go down them, especially late at night, but woe to him if sickness in his family or other necessity compels. He gets to the end of his trip feeling cowed and nervous and profane in every fibre of his body, and if he has a Spanish wife and a son named Jesus, he repeats that boy's name until the latter looks upon him with "grave suspicion."

The preservation of the morals of this community, charity for the poor, the securing to every man his inalienable right to a sound night's sleep, everything calls upon us to suppress this dog nuisance.
It cannot be suppressed by law. Don't pass any more dog laws. Tucson is sore on that subject. Suggesting every street in town and the of gas and water-works and the organization of a fire department with steam engines, and go to the utmost limit of extraordinary move for a floor in the court-house, and this corporation will smile with resignation, but don't suggest any more dog laws. Innocent enough in themselves, and as long as they are allowed to quietly adorn the statute book, you have but to try their enforcement if you wish to be a lively pace.
Let there be organized a dog vigilance committee, and with a suitable expenditure for strychnine and proper administration thereof, we believe that the dogs could be reduced in number to a working capital. We must do something. Several nights of this past week it has been impossible to sleep at all.

REAL estate is not very lively in Tucson.
At least that portion of it forming permanently located lots. J. S. Mansfield purchased the large lot, with improvements thereon, corner of Stone Avenue and Camp-st., this week for the sum of $450.
As in all other towns, the value of property in Tucson shifts and changes materially at different periods. A few years ago the lot spoken of could not have been bought for double the money, and a few years hence it may more than regain its original value. Real estate is very dull.
Why just look at the difficulty had in disposing of vacant lots in Tucson at a merely nominal price, some time ago. Most any of these outside pieces of another earth would have made eligible sites for Summer residences. If we could be assured that the erratic genius who made that part of The Chronicle gift map representing Arizona had not bent the line of the Texas Pacific railroad without due authority and sent it curving through Tuc-son simply to relieve the monotony of an otherwise straight line, we would buy a corner lot or two ourselves. But while we are perfectly willing to give The Chronicle man credit for a brilliancy of imagination, in the presence of which that of the early geographer who sent the skiff of the unsuspecting stranger in at the mouth of the Hudson and floated him into the Pacific, is draped in everlasting night, still we confess that our faith is too weak to follow his eagle flights.

A. BRICHTA, the ingenious manipulator of the Recorder's office of this county, having read the late Act of Congress in regard to timber culture, has been experimenting on the growing of trees so as to get the entire benefit of said Act in the fulness of time. Dissatisfied with the devious and effete processes of raising trees from seeds and young saplings, and with an ambition which if not blasted by early disappointment will eventually raise its proprietor to an enviable fame, Mr.
Brichta procured some incipient saw logs and in a corresponding number of holes deposited a quantity of oats, which the contract price has rendered almost valueless for anything but experiments. Upon this bed of oats he planted his timber and filled in with compost: the oats grew, attached to and pressed against the porous bottom of the posts, and thus vegetable life was infused into the latter and the oat sprouts formed themselves into roots and the many leaved branches sprang from the chrysalis posts and every thing was lovely.

Our informant suggested that this was playing roots on the trees; which it was, but the levity with which the suggestion was made was unequalled in speaking of this great experiment in natural science.
E. N. FISH has been absent for the last two weeks on a trip to the Posts east of here and if we did not dislike to make a personal reference we would call attention to our miserable failure as a local in not knowing of this absence of one of our most prominent citizens until several days ago. While at Goodwin Mr. Fish met with a mishap which was probably very unpleasant to himself, while in suspense as to the result. He went into camp and as is his custom turned his horses out.
One of them was a horse he had lately purchased and the animal not having had time to find out what a lucky fellow he was to have got into the hands of such a good horse man as his proprietor really is, went off with his mate in search of "fields arrayed in living green." Having procured assistance and spent several days in search Mr. Fish finally found them.

THE Papagos reported to their agent, Dr.
Wilbur, this week that on Tuesday last they discovered the trail of four Apaches crossing the Santa Cruz just south of town.
They found the tracks back of their rancheria and followed them out about half way to the Rillito, when seeing no evidence of their having stolen stock, the Papagos returned.

AMERICAN cast-iron has an advantage of twenty-five per cent. over German cast-iron in strength, and is nearly sixteen per cent. stronger than English cast-iron. So the export of agricultural machinery to the European continent has become a prominent feature of American trade, and is susceptible of a still further development.
